rrow and to-morrow and to-morrow!" This was the almost universal plea put in yester-day in Supreme Court, Chambers, by lawyers as their cases were called. In other words, there was rst Monday of the month; but the counsel were story verified, "The law's delays." Judge West-brook, of Ulster county, who held Chambers two months ago, presided, and will hold the Court during the month. In the Superior Court, Chambers, held by Judge Curtis, as also in the Court of Common Pieas, held by Judge Robinson, there were likewise heavy calendars, but here there was the same asking for delay. It is very evident that there will not be much doing in the courts until the opening of the October term.

In the Marine Court, parts 1, 2 and 3, presided ever for the term by Judges Gross, Spanlding and McAdam, heavy calendars are the order of the day. Cases that were called on which lawyers were not ready for trial were set down peremptorily for stated days within the term. The busimess of the Court is so much on the increase that ne alternative is leit to the judges but summary disposition of cases, either by trial or to strike the cases off the calendar and thus make room for others in which all the parties interested are ready to go on.

NEW YORK FOUNDLING ASYLUM.

For some time there has been pending in the Court of Common Pleas the Morgan divorce suit, and the matter is now undergoing investigation sefdre a referee. The action, as heretofore stated in the HERALD, was brought by the husband, and one of the charges in the complaint upon which the sutt for divorce is founded is that Mrs. Morgan has given birth to an illegitimate child, and that this child was given by the mother in charge of the Sisters of Charity having control of the Foundling Asylum at present located in Sixty-eighth street, near Third avenue. With a view to obtain evidence on this point a subpæna was issued commanding Sister Irene, the Supe. Floress, to produce the books of the institution for spection. Acting upon the advice of Mr. John E. Develin, her counsel, her reply to the suppona was that she would do nothing of the kind. Opsing counsel upon this procured from the Court of Common Pleas an order directing Sister Irene to appear in court and show cause why an attachment should not be issued against her for contempt of court. The cause was then argued at great length, counsel for Sister Irene submitting anat the books in question contained entries of a confidential nature affecting the peace of numerous private families; that the sayium was regularly chartered as a corporation; that no officer of a corporation has control of its books except for the purpose of the corporation; that the books in question were not for inspection; that the sisters decidedly objected to allowing that the states to look over the books; that the application was too indefinite, and that no particular entry or statement was saked for. The Court, at the close of the argument, vacated the order. The case was up again yesterday before Judge Robinson in Common Pleas, Chambers, on an application for an order of the Court to produce the books. The same ground was travelled over again. Mr. Develin, counsel for Sister Irene, now took the ground that there is no have to compel her to disclose anything as to the nature of the entries on the books of the asylum. Judge Robinson reserved his decision until ne has consulted the authorities. to appear in court and show cause why an attach-

Judge Sutherland proceeded to charge them upon the several statutes which it is the duty of Court to enumerate for their guidance. The only point of public interest referred to by the Judge was the duty of the Grand Jury look into the conduct of public officers. said:-"It is easy to conceive in the of gross neglect of duty or gross irregularities by public officers amounting to corrupsion and punishable criminally, the injury arising from such irregularities is so distributed among the community generally that no one nted among the community generally that no one individual, in most cases, would feel sufficiently aggrieved to go before the Grand Jury and make compisint, and thus attract public attention to it. You have the power to look into the conduct of public officers or public bodies who are intrusted with great duties and powers for the public good, and you need not wait for the action of the District Attorney or a complainant. To be sure, you ought not to do it out of Idle curlosity; but after you have good reason to think that any such irregularities or gross omissions of daty as are criminal have been committed, you have the power, and it is your duty, to inquire into them."

The Grand Jurors then retired to enter upon the discharge of their duties.

JEFFERSON MARKET POLICE COURT.

Poetical Sneak Thief.

Before Judge Murray. Mrs. Emma L. Ely, or 71 Bank street, about two Pelock yesterday afternoon saw a man who was a stranger to her coming out of her room. She asked his business and he ded without answering. She gave an alarm, and Mr. Morgan, of No. 27 Downing succet, who was passing at the time, pursued streets the latter drew from his pocket a quantity of jewelry, consisting of bracelets, earrings, diamond ring and gold watch, worth altogether $250, and ring and gold watch, worth altogether $250, and threw them in the gutter. The prisoner, however, was captured by Morgan and handed over to Officer Muret, of the Ninth precinct. He gave his name as William Adams, a clerk, residing at No. 318 West Fortyseventh street. He was taken before Judge Mureray and on examination claimed to be innocent. He seemed to have a taste for ran ming, as the following manuscript lines were found in a memorandum took in his pocket:—

Three sighs for life, for the bitter cup:
Three neart wrung sighs for a wretch hard up;
A sigh for the past with list golden hue,

Despairing, here in the strees i stand,

Wealth from the larthest ends of earth,
Seem as in mockery temping spread,
Shelter and rest for an aching head,
Shelter and rest for an aching head.

Judge Murray read the verses and held the un-ortunate poet in $2,800 ball to answer. Driven to Desperation.

Officer Browning, of the Ninth precinct, came into court yesterday morning with a very intelli-gent looking lady under his protection. Judge Murray inquired what charge, if any, was made. The officer replied that the lady had been given into his charge by the managers of the Hoboken terry as a person who had attempted to commit suicide. Her name was Martha Warner, and she suicide. Her name was Martha Warner, and she resided with her husband at No. 87 Christopher street. According to the officer's statement, she had taken the Hoboken lerry-boat that morning, and on nearing the or posite shore jumped overboard. She was rescued in a small boat, taken to her residence, where she procured dry clothing, and was taken thence to the court. Judge Marray asked her what induced her to attempt the rash act. "Judge," answered Mrs. Warner, "I have been so beaten and abused by my husband that I did not care what became of me. This morning he knocked me down and beat me about the head and shoulders."

Judge Murray—If you had come here and made a complaint I would have had him arrested.

"Judge," answered the heartbroken woman, "It is of no use. I have made complaints many times, but it is the same old story over again.

THE SAILORS' GRIEVANCES.

Proposition to the Boarding House Keepers Authority-Increased Wages Demanded-A Mass Meeting of Seamen to Be Held. A meeting of the new organization known as the "Seamen's Protective Association of the United States" was held at Botanic Hall, on East Broadway, near Market street, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Several hundred sailors were present, and the proceedings were quite lively. e association was formed about a week ago for the ostensible purpose of opposing the seamen's Boarding House Keepers' Benevolent Association from shipping crews in sailing vessels at reduced rates, and for the purpose of regulating the pay of the seamen in future. J. T. Arnett, President, in calling the meeting to order, was quite severe in his allusions to United States Shipping Commisenemy, not the friend, of the sailor. The Seamen's Exchange, he said, was erected for the purpose of affording protection to seamen, but, instead of being a protection to them, it was an expense, and made an extra master for the sailor. the office of Shipping Commissioner was provided for by the wiseacres in Congress the sailor had but for by the wiseacres in Congress the sailor had but one master on shore, this one being his boarding master. He was quite sufficient; but now the Commissioner had the power to say, and does say, that the sailor shall take such wages as the captain of a versel may choose to give, and also, on the return and discnarge of crews, if there should be any case in dispute Mr. C. C. Duncan determines the case, and he had never yet, to the speaker's knowledge, decided in favor of poor Jack. Mr. Arnett thought it would be well if Mr. Duncan had some one to look after him as sharply as he looked after the sailor.

Resolutions were adopted to resist what the sailors term the payment of "blood money" in luture.

A schedule of wages was presented and adopted A schedule of wages was presented and adopted by the meeting, the members piedging themselves to abide by the new rates, and to sinp for no less pay in luture. The rates fixed are as follows:—Deep water, $20 per month and two' months advance: Mediterranean and south America, on the Atlantic side, $20 per month and $25 in advance; West indices and Western Islands, $25 per month and one month's wages in advance; coastwise, $30 per month and $10 advance; north of Cape Florida, $15 per month, and south of Florida, $20 per month; Europe, $25 per month and $30 advance for American ships, and $30 per month and $35 advance for foreign ships.

Dr. Thoms, of the Nautical Academy, addressed the meeting, and characterized the demands of the Boarding House Association for the sailors as extravagant and such as should be resisted. He endorsed thus the objects of the new organization

COTTON STORAGE.

Propositions for Building a Union Store house-The Decision of the Joint Com-

On the 20th of July last, a resolution passed by the Committee on Trade, to take into consideration the advisability of erecting a large union warehouse in a suitable location, was passed by the Board of Managers of the Cotton Exchange, and the said committee further advised to decid on the location—the warehouse to be properly constructed on an extensive scale so as to give ample opportunity to all merchants for the stor-age of cotton and sundry similar merchandise. resterday the joint committee on trade and of

The joint committee, atter discussing at length the various points and merits which the different plans suggested, were fin-lily unanimous in recommending the acceptance of the plan of Mr. J. A. Bostwick after it had been subjected to some few changes in the specifications, and the ioniowing committee were appointed to prepare a report to the Cotton Exchange:—Committee—Messrs, Benjamin P. Baker, A. S. Jewel and D. H. Baldwin, Mr. J. A. Bostwick's plan was pronounced acceptable, because it proved to be the only one which permitted the storage of cotton at other points in the city by all merchants who should desire to have such accommodations. The decision of the committee will not become binding, however, until endorsed by the Board of Managers of the Exchange, for whom a report will be prepared as soon as possible and submitted to them for consequents.
